STANDARD OIL INTENDS TO OBEY THE ORDER OF THE COURT AND DISSOLVE THE COMBINATION

THIS IS THE STATEMENT GIVEN OUT TODAY AT THE STAN-DARD OIL HEAD-QUARTERS.

EFFECTS OF DECISION

Market Was Not Affected in the Least
the Past Month—General Opinion on Rulings.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, May 16.—The first word from the Standard Oil company on the decision came today. It makes two points clear.
First: There'll be no recombination by the company; it purposes to obey the decree.
Second: It will be some time before any plans of re-organization are given out.
The company has insisted throughout that no plans had been formulated in advance of the decree, and the statement made today by Mortimer Pelti, general solicitor for the company, takes the same attitude.

"Good Trusts."
New York, May 16.—A victory for good trusts is the interpretation put up on the Standard Oil decision by Henry Wallman, one of the counsel for Missouri in its outburst against the oil company.

In New York.
[BY UNITED PRESS.]

New York, May 16.—One effect of the government's decision in the Standard Oil case, and the one in which the public will be most vitally concerned, according to businessmen here who have read the decision, is the probable advance in price of all oil products to the ultimate consumer.

Merely Changed.
The turning back to the original companies of the stock will not make any real change in the ownership of these concerns, it is pointed out. They will be Standard Oil properties, although their stock will be distributed among numerous share holders instead of being in the strong boxes of the parent corporation, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.
More Expense.
Whereas, now many of the concerns are operated under a general manager, they will be operated as district concerns. Operating expenses will be increased, while there will be no way to compel actual competition for trade.

Increased Cost.
To meet the expense of individual administrations the prices will necessarily have to be advanced, it is believed.

No Sales.
Standard Oil stock opened at the early market today at its closing price yesterday and in ten minutes was six seventy-five bid and six eighty asked. There was practically no Standard Oil or American Tobacco stocks offered for sale.

Insertion of the words "unreasonable combinations" into the Sherman anti-trust law, by the United States supreme court, brought delight to all persons interested in the stock market today, with the result that after weeks of lethargy the exchange took on unwonted activity.

No Flurry.
London, May 16.—No serious effect of the decision of the Standard Oil case was felt in the English markets today. The unexpected stability is due to the fact the decision had been discounted and the further fact there is a general feeling the decision does not mean a real dissolution.

May Prosecute.
[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—High governmental officials today declared criminal prosecution of the officials of the Standard Oil Company may follow the decision of the Supreme Court. The matter will be taken up by the attorney general within a few days.

Set at Rest.
The following explanation today set at rest individual share holders of the Standard Oil company since its inception: "The decree requires that the thirty-seven companies forming the combine be divorced from each other; that there be no common ownership of stock and that they be conducted as separate enterprises."
Would Amend Laws.
At an informal conference of Senate progressives it was decided to urge an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law reading as follows: "No combination in restraint of trade shall be regarded as reasonable within the terms of this act."

The measure now goes to the governor.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

The assembly also concurred in the bill providing for the construction of powder mills and storage of giant powder and dynamite. This measure now goes to the governor.
The Ellington measure, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor on passenger trains was also passed by the assembly.

In The Senate.
The senate adopted a joint resolution cutting off all new business on May 20th and requiring all committees, except the finance committee, to report back all bills by May 27th. The subject of re-apportionment of the state into assembly, senate and congressional districts was exempted from the provision of the resolution as this matter will be taken up last by the legislature. The resolution was sent to the assembly where it was referred to the committee on legislative procedure. Action is expected tomorrow or Thursday.

The Donald Bill.
The assembly advanced the Donald bill to a third reading. This is the good roads bill, which appropriates three hundred thousand dollars annually for construction of highways. It has passed the senate and will see final action in the assembly this week.

WILL NOT ADJOURN SESSIONS BEFORE MIDDLE OF JUNE

Legislature Has In Neighborhood Of Eight Hundred Bills To Consider
Before Work Can Be Stopped
For This Year.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., May 16.—The opinion prevails among the majority of members that the legislature will not be able to adjourn sine die until June 17 or 20. The leaders have decided to push business as rapidly as possible, but there are about 800 bills and resolutions yet to be considered and some of them are highly important and will consume considerable time. Only two republican state platform pledges have yet been redeemed, those declaring for a workmen's compensation law and for a second-class primary election law. Other big measures like the corrupt practices act—regulating the expenditures of money in political campaigns and the good roads bill, will be put through in a few days. The income tax, water power and other big bills will take more time. Final adjournment cannot be taken until the third week in June. The proposition to take a recess until next fall or adjourn with an understanding a special session be called next winter, has been abandoned. This was never seriously considered by legislative leaders, it is said.

Woman's Suffrage.
Senator David James is authority for the statement that this week will see the woman's suffrage bill con- sidered by the assembly and placed in the hands of the governor for his signature. It has passed the senate in due form. The measure has been ordered to its final stage by the lower house and the vote is likely Tuesday or Wednesday. As the assembly has amended the original measure, the senate will necessarily concur in these changes before the bill goes to the governor. This, however, will be speedy work for the upper house, according to Senator James. The referendum clause of the bill provides that it shall not become a law unless approved by a majority vote of the people at the general elections of 1912.

Joker Bills.
"Joker" bills in the senate are due for a killing and the general laughter is expected this week.
The senate judiciary committee has recommended that death come to the Perry bill prohibiting a man from "speaking to his mother-in-law above a whisper" and the bill to prevent newsmen from yelling their papers on the streets. These measures have passed the lower house. The Hanson anti-haunt bill and the Street cleaner tax bill are to see oblivion among the many other less noted of joker bills.

HONORS PAID TODAY TO ENGLISH QUEEN

STATUE OF QUEEN VICTORIA UN-VEILED IN LONDON IN ST.
JAMES' PARK.

EUROPEAN ROYALTY

Joined with Entire British Empire in Monster Demonstration of Love for Deceased Monarch—Ceremonies Very Impressive.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, May 16.—The pages of English history would be turned back in vain to find a parallel for the imposing ceremonial that London witnessed today at the unveiling of the great national memorial to Queen Victoria. Patriotism and love of country formed the keynote of the demonstration.

The German Emperor and Empress, the King and Queen of Norway and representatives of practically all the royal houses of Europe, together with the members of the British royal family, were participants in the demonstration. Brilliant features of military pageantry were also included in the program. The playing of muffled bands, the thunder of deep-throated cannon, the ringing of cathedral bells and the gorgeous trappings of military power—all these contributed to the impressiveness of the pageant.

Sovereigns, princes, military and naval officers, diplomats and court functionaries in brilliant uniforms, and archbishops and bishops in the crimson, purple and gold insignia of their office took part in the ceremony.

And yet, after all the gorgeousness of the display, there yet remained the most impressive of all—the presence of the hundreds of thousands of common people, who stood by with heads uncovered and listened reverently to the eloquent words of praise bestowed upon Victoria the Good. No greater tribute to the memory of man or woman was ever presented than this silent homage of the people.

The ceremony of unveiling occurred in the great circular space in St. James' Park facing Buckingham Palace, which in London was the Queen's official home. Surrounding the memorial were great stands to accommo- date the royal guests, officials of state, foreign diplomats, members of parliament and others invited to take part in the exercises. One section was set aside especially for distin- guished visitors from the overseas dominions, many of whom have already arrived from Canada, Australia and other parts of the empire to attend the Imperial Conference.

The arrangements for the dedica- tion were of the most perfect and elaborate character and every detail of the program was carried out without a hitch. The War Department had the supervision of the military pageant, while the Archbishop of Canterbury prepared the religious service. King George, too, is entitled to much of the credit for the success of the program.

His Majesty, who seems to have inherited his father's marvelous capacity for attending to details, has for several weeks past given personal attention to the arrangements for the unveiling. Early in the day he visited the memorial to satisfy himself that not the smallest detail had been neglected. Not until he had assured himself on this point was his equerry, Colonel Sir Frederick Ponsonby, who had general charge of all arrangements, pre- pared to certify that the program might be proceeded with.

All branches of the service were represented in the military procession. Two hundred Life Guards in their magnificent uniforms and mounted upon black chargers cleared the way for the carriage occupied by royalty. A conspicuous feature of the procession was a detachment of officers and non-commissioned officers of the 1st Dragoon Regiment of the Guard, the German army regiment of which Queen Victoria was colonel-in-chief. The entire route of the procession was lined with troops, with military bands stationed at regular intervals. Back of the troops were the spectators, a veritable sea of faces, men, women and children, while thousands of others occupied doors and windows and house-tops.

The Queen Victoria Memorial which the Queen was permitted to "view" today for the first time is undoubtedly the most imposing monument in the British metropolis. The central feature is the statue of the Queen herself, though this is but a part of the great memorial. In addition there are statues and groups in both marble and bronze, fountain basins and broad marble approaches, the whole forming one great homogeneous work of art. The great statue of the Queen is 18 feet high. Other constituent parts of the memorial are great marble and bronze groups representing "Victory," "Courage," and "Continuity," and "Motherhood," "Justice" and "Truth." On pedestals flanking the steps are groups in bronze of "Peace," "Progress," "Manufactures" and "Agriculture," while over the fountain arches are colored figures representing "Industry" and "Intelligence"—that is, the army and the navy and science and the arts.

SALOON ORDINANCE IS REFERRED BACK

COUNCIL AGAIN PUT OFF ANTI-BREWERY AND FORTUNE TELLER MEASURES.

SESSION WAS QUIET

Street Signs Were Authorized, and Racine Street Bridge Is To Be Made of Steel.

Calm and peaceful was the session of the city fathers last evening, such calm being broken only when the ordinance prohibiting brewers from renting saloon premises came up for the third reading and was referred to the committee. Alderman Dullin, the father of the proposed ordinance, moved its third reading, whereupon Alderman Hucheltz moved that it be referred back to the committee again. The motion was so done over the violent protests of Alderman Dullin, who said that it was a measure which would work for the good of all concerned and being modeled along the lines of similar state legislation, would keep the brewers out of the saloon business in this city.

He stated further that the brewery in the city had been in existence for many years and that the saloon business was a necessary part of the city's life. He said that the ordinance was modeled after the one in the state and that it would keep the brewers out of the saloon business in this city.

Despite the opposition of Alderman Dullin and Schmiedley, the ordinance was re-referred to the committee. The former seemed to be somewhat discouraged with his efforts to secure the passage of the measure and so when the ordinance regarding the building of unid roads, hypodromes and fortune tellers to pay a license fee of $100 a day came up for the third reading and Alderman Schmiedley moved its reference back to the committee, he agreed and moved that it be laid on the table and killed for good, because that is what will happen to it.

Mayor Nichols announced at the beginning of the meeting that he had appointed Harry O. Nowlan to the fire and police commission in place of Dr. St. John, whose resignation was recently accepted by the council. A feature of the session was a talk by Health Officer Dr. M. Cunningham, in which he outlined to the council some of the many things that needed attention about the city as regards cleanliness and the care of the public health. "There are a number of places in the city," he said, "where the dumping of garbage and rubbish has gone on for some time in such places as to be not only detrimental to the health of the people, but to the appearance of the city as a whole. One of these places is on Western avenue, another back of the Thoroughgood Company and still another on Academy street at the intersection with Milwaukee street."

"Another thing that I wish to call the attention of the council to is the bad condition of some of the garbage cans in the city. In many instances someone has punched these full of holes so that they will not hold water, causing them to leak and thus spread much of the uncleanly stuff on the ground, where it cannot be removed."

After a short discussion in which it was stated by several of the aldermen that there was something decidedly wrong with the garbage removal system here, the mayor suggested that the city attorney draw up an order, which would let the collecting of garbage out on contract and would stipulate the duties of the collector.

Captain Fleming of the Salvation Army was present at the meeting and objected to the assessment of their property for taxation on the grounds that they were entitled to exemption. During the recess, District Attorney Dunwiddie addressed the council on this subject, saying that in his opinion, the Army was entitled to exemption in that they were a religious and charitable society and were incorporated under the laws of New York. The taxes having been returned as unpaid, he suggested that in order to save time and money for the city, that the city pay the taxes for the army and that they be reimbursed later. Supervisor of Assessment P. P. Starr, was called upon to give his opinion in the matter. He said that while he was not trying to push a wrong case against the Salvation Army and that the assessment had been made in good faith, he said that at the time of the assessment he had understood that the building was being used for a barracks and that the army was being disbanded and that they were deriving money from this source. No action was taken on the matter at the meeting, the item being advanced by several that they were no more liable to assessment than was the Y. M. C. A. It was brought out, that at the time of assessment last June, the Army was not in actual possession of the building.

In the report of the finance committee, Alderman Hall introduced for adoption the report of the city treasurer. After the adoption of this report, the monthly bills were gone through and the clerk was ordered to draw on the treasurer for the total amount. Special orders were also authorized for the payment of the special police on circus day. The much talked of bridge question was settled in short order and without much opposition, and by a vote of six to four it was decided to put in a steel structure at Racine street, the contract going to the Central State Bridge Company of Indianapolis. This action was taken following the report of Alderman Sheridan for the highway committee, and upon his recommendation. Those voting against the awarding of the contract to the steel bridge company were Alderman Dullin, Dullin, Schmiedley and Dunwiddie. Under the report of this committee bids were offered and accepted by William Hous on the west side and John Murphy on

LINK AND PIN FIRST TRAIN FROM NEW CHICAGO DEPOT

Chicago and Northwestern. Special Train Left New Station Yesterday Morning For Annual Tour of Lines—Through Here On Return.

At eleven o'clock yesterday morning the first passenger train to leave the new $24,000,000 passenger station at Chicago, which will be opened June 1st, pulled out bearing officials of the company on their annual inspection tour of the system.

This was the first real passenger train to leave the station. For some time shuttle-trains have pulled in and out for the purpose of teaching the engine crews and employees of the road the signal and interlocking system and the plans of the tracks. The formal opening of the station will take place June 1.

While the special train carrying the officials did not pass through Janesville on its outgoing trip, it will in all probability come through here on its return to Chicago and in that case will arrive about Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. The inspection trip will cover the line as far out as the Black Hills and Wyoming and will include special attention paid to new construction work.

In the party were many of the high officials of the road, many of whom are known in this city. Among them are: Marvin Hucheltz, chairman of the board of directors; W. A. Gardner, president; W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Homer Miller, Clarence Koop and David Kimball, directors; H. K. McCulloch and J. M. Whitman, vice presidents; Albert C. Johnson, general manager; Marvin Hucheltz, Jr., freight traffic manager, and many minor officials from out of town.

CARPENTER BUYS NEW YARDS HOTEL

Proprietor of Railroad Hotel Down Town Will Run South Janesville Hostelry—Many Improvements.

Chas. H. Carpenter has recently purchased the hotel and property adjoining the South Janesville from the Croak Brewing Company, who bought the property only a short time ago. Mr. Carpenter has taken possession of the hostelry and has already begun extensive plans for the improvement and remodeling of the structure. The entire lower and second floors will be redecorated and new equipment will be installed making the accommodations of the best order possible. A force of men are at work at present making various changes and cleaning and building so that it will be fully adapted to give the railroad men first class service.

Mr. Carpenter is at present proprietor of the Railroad Hotel down town and has an excellent reputation as a landlord. John Mosher will take charge of the hotel at the yards acting as manager.

MORE BASE BALL PLANS MADE AT THE NEW YARDS

With the present ideal days the Motor Power Department base ball team is rapidly maturing into a fast and stellar aggregation which will be in a position to furnish a stern contest for the Jovian team next Saturday. The clash will be with the yard team, whose accomplishments have been widely heralded.

F. T. Lawson is expected to coach the central mound for the M. P. D. team and the same merry-go-round career, which will make the unsuspecting members of the opposition look for an aeroplane. Morris Smith who has been released by Manager Hennessy and Jack Lee will take his place on the number one station. Eddie Sullivan, owing to the popularity of the position of mascot, has also thrown up his contract and this is the only thing which throws gloom on the peerless ball players. In the shuffling line M. McDermott is counted on for the big deluge and with his new cast iron stick will endeavor to lose the elusive sphere in neighboring cow pastures.

BALL PLAYERS CHASED BY ANGRY BULL MONDAY

While W. G. Fomoro and J. P. Mason, the energetic and high ranking holders of the M. P. D. team, were bringing up a bit on puzzling curves on the diamond yesterday noon, they were urged to unusual efforts by the unexpected appearance of "king of the herd" from the neighboring farm yard. Walt and Jimmie decided it was their move and they did it quick. They made the home run. The wire fence offered resistance which nearly put Mason within reach of the frozied bull. Safety was finally reached and it was the opinion of the chased boys that the glory of the bull fight was lost for them.

BELOIT MAN ARRESTED TODAY FOR DRUNKENNESS

Dan Ryan of Beloit Taken in Charge This Morning for Unbecoming Actions in Court House Park.

Too much Janesville "booze" proved the undoing of Dan Ryan of Beloit and as a result he is residing in a cell at the city lockup recovering from the effects of his spree. Not Afraid of Ma.

"Dear little fellow, how full of life he is!" gushed the visitor who longed to shake the mischievous small son of her child-ridden hostess. "I wonder if he is always so playful?" "Not outdoors," the uncle replied, glibly. "The kids wouldn't stand for no such doin's, but—in a will!"

Types of Unselfishness.

There are two types of unselfishness. One is always found in connection with a noble self-esteem that prevents the virtue from degenerating into a vice; the other is associated with a self-effacement, a lack of individuality, a fecklessness of will that make its owner merely a vehicle for a conspicuous exhibition of self-sacrifice.

It Stuck.

The cat was being pursued by Patrick around and around the kitchen. A sudden turn in the chase landed it "kerplunk" into the crack containing the pancake batter. It scrambled out barely in time to escape a blow from the poker wielded by Patrick, and shot into the yard. "Lave the poor baste go," begged Biddy, seeking to make peace. "The batter ain't hurt in the least. Every place he touched it has stuck to him."—Everybody's Magazine.

Hobbs, evidently a local talent and acquainted with the habits of Dr. Bartlett, broke into the office, broke into and robbed the office in the back room black on Sunday afternoon and silverware and jewelry valued at about ten dollars were taken. The rooms were ransacked by the thieves but nothing of any great value was taken, and a souvenir spoon which had been presented to the doctor, was left. The office was broken into by breaking the lock on the door, an infrequent attempt having been made to pry the lock open. The robbery occurred between twelve o'clock Sunday noon and nine o'clock Sunday night. The robbery was not reported to the police.

DECIDED ON PLANS FOR COMING YEAR'S STUDY OF CLASS

Twentieth Century History Class Will Have Lectures on Greece by Prof. Wright of Beloit College.

At a special meeting of the Twentieth Century History Class, held Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Fred Shedd, it was decided to take up the study of Greece during the coming year. It was also decided to make arrangements with Prof. Wright, head of the Greek department of Beloit college, to deliver a course of lectures on the subject. Prof. Wright is perhaps one of the best known authorities on ancient and modern Greece in the middle west and has lectured in Janesville on this interesting subject several years ago. He will use illustrated slides to depict the scenes in Greece and the course should prove most interesting to the members of the class.

The defense introduced one witness this afternoon in rebuttal and the lawyers made their pleas to the jury. Judge Philford commenced the reading of his instructions to the jury at ten minutes after three and shortly thereafter the case was given into the hands of the jury.

Another Boost for Janesville.

Every little helps.

C. W. Schwartz has added a motor truck to his equipment. Mr. Schwartz stated that the rubber tired motor truck will prove the missing link in piano moving, as it eliminates excessive vibration, which necessitates more frequent tuning. A demonstration last summer proved the foregoing.

A plane just landed at 55 miles into the country and it was shown upon arrival that it was in perfect condition. This truck is made in Janesville by the Monitor Automobile Works, owned by Janesville people. It is considered one of the best in the one ton class.

RELIABILITY RUNS BEING MAPPED OUT

Care Left Milwaukee Yesterday to Lay Out Route for the Summer Endurance Tests.

M. C. Moore, president of the Wisconsin State Automobile association, in company with Carl S. Palmer of New York City, an eastern newspaper man, Manning Vaughan, sporting editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel, and E. P. Moore of the Wisconsin Motorist, left Milwaukee, Sunday, on a road-trip for the 1911 Wisconsin State Automobile association reliability contest for the Milwaukee Sentinel sweepstakes trophy, the Milwaukee Journal trophy for touring cars, the Evening Wisconsin trophy for roadsters and the Emil Schumacher trophy for privately owned touring cars. The route of this run lies through Janesville.

The re-pathfinding will be done for the purpose of securing additional data, photographs, etc., and "hotting" road conditions existing at this time of the year as compared with those existing last November when the original trip was made.

Several changes in the route will be considered, as considerable pressure has been brought to bear upon those in charge of this tour to alter the route in places, making it pass through some more thickly populated parts of the state.

It will probably take the pathfinding party from a week to ten days to do this work as undoubtedly there will be certain sections which it will be necessary to go over two or three times in order to find just the right road.

The judge left for Jefferson this afternoon and will return tomorrow afternoon to continue the cases which may come up in the meanwhile.

TELLS OF VISIT TO THE CAPTURED CITY

J. C. Wilmarth Writes of Excitement in Juarez When Shooting began on Streets.

In a letter written after the capture of Juarez by General Madero and his forces, J. C. Wilmarth gives a description of the excitement caused by the shooting of the rifles by some insurgents who were only celebrating. Mr. Wilmarth wrote:

"We were a good deal nearer to the shooting than was comfortable, as there were bullets all over our part of town. Thursday afternoon Juarez was opened up for the first time and many of us were out to see the insurgents in possession.

While we were watching a reception to Orozco we heard the rifles begin to pop two blocks away. Everybody began to yell and run and the shooting kept getting thicker.

"We started up a street two miles long and I passed the same bullet three times as the horse would shakeen up and then gain headway again. Finally we got into a little adobe house out on the edge of town and stayed until the storm blew over.

"For a while it was pretty exciting. Insurgents thought some federals had come up from the south to attack the town and there were soldiers running up every street to get into the fortifications.

"After a while they found out that it was a bunch of insurgents who were shooting in the air to show how good they felt.

"Two or three people were hit with the bullets and fully 10,000 were scared out of a year's growth."

NAME ADMINISTRATOR FOR MAN'S ESTATE

Dr. W. H. McGuire Appointed Administrator in Estate of Harry Thuerwhacker—Wife at Hearing.

In the matter of the appointment of an administrator for the estate of the late Harry Thuerwhacker, who died at Mercy hospital in this city on March 21, Judge Sale this morning named Dr. W. H. McGuire of this city. Thuerwhacker was employed at the Myers hotel and following injuries received in an interurban smash-up last year was stricken with meningitis and death resulted.

The peculiar part of the illness and death of Thuerwhacker was the fact that it was not until the last hours of the man's life that it was learned that he was married. Efforts were made to locate the woman but no trace of her could be found. Today she appeared at the court house and offered testimony in the hearing. It seems that they had not been living together for some time preceding his coming to this city but that she has been living for some time in Milwaukee. The amount of the estate was not large. Dr. McGuire was a close personal friend of the man's and was named as administrator of his estate.

Later in the afternoon, testimony given before Judge Sale in the matter of the appointment of a guardian for John Sloan, recently committed to the state asylum at Mendota. It is probable that the man's sister will be appointed.

MEET TO ARRANGE LEAGUE SCHEDULE

Managers of Janesville Athletic Association Teams Will Gather Tomorrow Night to Plan for Season.

Managers of the baseball teams interested in the Janesville Commercial Athletic Association will meet tomorrow night at the Y. M. C. A. building and arrange the schedule of baseball games for the coming season. Most of the factories which form the association have granted Saturday half holidays to their employees, and it is planned to complete the plans for the season in order to commence playing as soon as possible. There is a possibility that the league may open on next Saturday, but until the managers meet this is uncertain. The committee on rules which was drawing up the by-laws of the league has completed its work and these have been handed to the managers, who propose to enter the league.

Under the reorganization of the Commercial League into the Janesville Commercial Athletic Association, its field of activities has been enlarged and it is planned to include other athletic sports, and not limit it to base ball. In this manner the association will be operative throughout the year, for the indoor sports as well as the outdoor games.

Meeting of Manufacturers.

Representatives of the business interests of the country from almost every State assembled at the Waldorf Astoria today for the first session of the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers. The convention will close with a banquet Wednesday night. President John K. Johnson, Jr., occupied the chair at the initial session, which was devoted to executive business. The program for the subsequent sessions calls for reports and discussions dealing with many vital problems relating to industry and labor. The subject of accident prevention and industrial relief occupies the foremost place on the agenda. A special feature will also be made of banking and currency, and the attitude of the manufacturers towards the plans recently proposed to reform the banking and currency systems. Other questions of economic importance, such as immigration, industrial education, patent law reform and the creation of an independent tariff commission of experts will also be considered.

Janesville's Trade Conditions Are Unique

This city is fortunate in the makeup of its manufacturing industries. The fact that they are so diversified and also the fact that it is known as an agricultural center, the rural business disturbances which affect other parts of the country, do not seem to make any great difference with the business of this community. We go right on transacting business as usual. Factories run full time with the usual amount of orders on hand. This condition is unique because there is hardly another city anywhere in which such conditions prevail. The inhabitants, generally speaking, are well to do, they are prosperous and thrifty and the outlying cities and country with which Janesville has largely to do in the way of trade are likewise prosperous. It is a splendid condition and one which we doubtless do not realize as much as we would if we were personally familiar with other parts of the country.

of the Republic. Department of Indiana. The several affiliated organizations also meet during the week and all signs point to a large attendance. Police buildings and business houses are profusely decorated and the annual parade will move through garlands of red, white and blue bunting.

the east for the sprinkling of the streets and their intersections. The lowest of three bids was also accepted for the painting of the Court street bridge, it being the one offered by Rohlf and Hennings for $101.00.

The council approved several bonds upon the recommendation of Alderman Evans, reporting for the judiciary committee. These were as follows: Recorder Printing Company, for the city printing for the ensuing year; Arthur Jones, as a member of the fire and police commission; C. A. Crossman, for a second bid on the St. John street and the Burlington Company, the company furnishing the new street signs.

The council authorized the purchase of the new street signs last night. Upon the motion of Alderman Hall the contract for the furnishing of seven hundred enamel covered signs, four by twenty inches, with a guarantee of ten years was awarded to the Burdick Enamel Company. Some fear was shown on the part of some of the aldermen as to the lasting qualities of these signs, but this contract was taken on its merits and the purchase authorized. The price will come to twenty-seven and one half cents each and the bond offered was $200.

In the report for the committee on public buildings, Alderman Dull raised quite a stir when he suggested that there were some badly needed repairs on the city hall. He said that there has not been anything done on that building for the past two years and that the condition of some of the rooms, especially the jail, was very bad. He said that it was a shame to let a building that cost $85,000 get into such a run down condition. Alderman Evans took some exception to the remarks of Mr. Dull, saying that in his knowledge there had been repair work done last year on the jail part of the hall. Outside of this difference of opinion there was nothing done about the matter. Upon the introduction of an order by Alderman Schindler, the mandamus of N. Academy street with additional cement gutters, from Milwaukee street to the railroad tracks was authorized by the council.

Alderman Shoen introduced an ordinance, which was passed under a suspension of the rules, regarding the care of the telegraph and telephone poles about the city by the companies owning them. It provides that the pole be stamped with the name of the company and that the company be responsible for the care of the ground around the pole, and that they see that the dirt is kept tamped down and level.

Considerable discussion was called forth by the introduction of an order by Alderman Dull providing for the repaving of Center avenue with gravel and rubble from the Five Points to the Monterey bridge. The question of legality of this as an order was raised and as the city attorney and Mr. Nolan, who were present could not agree on the matter, Alderman Dull withdrew the order.

An ordinance which was taken more as a joke than anything else by the council was introduced by Alderman Dull regulating the conduct of automobiles and other vehicles in the city. Some little time was consumed by the clerk in the reading as it contained twenty-seven sections and went very much into detail. No action was taken on the proposed ordinance.

At the close of the session the city was being lunched into purchasing a piece of land that was "not worth thirty cents" and that the deal did not look right. Alderman Dull strenuously opposed the acceptance of the quit claim deed of C. S. and C. W. Jackson for a lot which was to be used as the western approach of the Racine street bridge for the sum of $400. The acceptance of the deed was urged by Alderman Hall, who introduced the motion for its acceptance. Mr. Dull said that it looked as if Mr. Hall was trying to railroad the thing through and that he did not propose to allow it. The motion was carried by the vote of six to four. After the passage of several orders authorizing the construction of cross walks and cement gutters, the meeting adjourned.

Glad at His Will.

A heart rejoicing in God delights in all his will, and is most surely provided with the most firm joy in all estates; for if nothing can come to pass beside or against his will, then cannot that soul be vexed which delights in him and hath no will but his, but follows him in all times, in all estates; not only when he shines bright on them, but when they are clouded. That flower which follows the sun doth that even in dark and cloudy days, when it does not shine forth, yet it follows the hidden course and motion of it. So the soul that moves after God keeps that course when he hides his face; is content, yet even glad at his will in all estates or conditions or events.—Luther.

"DRY" ALDERMEN VOTE FOR RUM SHOP

Rockford Went Wet Last Evening After Ten Days of Abstinence—Thirty-two Licenses Granted.

Rockford is wet again. That is, there are thirty-two licensed saloons in the city today instead of the fifty-two that did business last year. This peculiar feature of the situation was that the "dry" aldermen combined and voted for the granting of the licenses, while the "wet" aldermen held out for the full number of saloons or nothing. For ten days past the city has been dry. It has been an arid spot despite the fact the county and city voted "wet" at the spring elections and then the city elected a dry council. This does not settle the matter, however, as some of the men who were granted licenses state they will refuse to take out the permits, even though allowed, as a rebuke to the methods used by the "drys" to carry out their point at issue.

Those to whom licenses were granted are the men who had clean sheets during the "dry" period of two years. The Rockford aldermen, who held the balance of power, declared they would never vote for men convicted of violating the law.

When the Ship Artist Forgets.

In the paintings of big ocean liners put forth by the steamship companies there's not much chance to go astray. Painters naturally go anywhere near the chance for blunders that there is in depicting any sort of sailing ship. But one thing the steamship artists generally do wrong. They point the mouths of the ventilators to windward. At sea ventilators always open to leeward, being shifted as the wind changes. The marine artists often paint ventilators wrong purposely because a long row of red mouthed air shafts look well, or is thought to. As the direction of the wind is indicated by the smoke drifting back the mistake is glaring.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

"THE trouble with that woman is that she just makes too hard work of living."

So the lady who always knows somehow cleverly characterized a woman whose truly marvelous ability to find flaws in the most alluringly flawless project, and obstacles in the most apparently unobstructed path, and to create difficulties and alarms and worries out of thin air at any time, we had been discussing.

Don't you think it is a very clever description of that large class of people whom we all know who are forever spoiling not only other people's but also their own happiness by this insistence upon thinking up disagreeable contingencies and possible difficulties at all times and under all conditions?

A spring holiday is close at hand. You—a member of a family whose happiness is lessened by one of these hard living persons—suggest that it would be a fine lark for the whole family to shut up the house and go out into the country to a farm for dinner. Everyone is delighted with this scheme except, of course, the hard living. While everyone else is outthinking she is silent, and inquiry soon brings out the fact that she does not think the house ought to be shut up because some weeks ago Aunt Maria said she might be in town on that day and what would she think if she came out and found nobody at home? She will stay and keep the house open. (This class of person is always eager to sacrifice herself for her whims, but the end usually is that the comfort and happiness of the rest of the company are the real sacrifice.) In vain you argue that Aunt Maria never visits you without sending some more definite word. The hard living person hurls her obstinate to her bosom and the result is, that rather than leave her home alone, the excursion is given up. Needless to say Aunt Maria does not come.

Again this same overworked person comes home from a calling tour quite down in the dumps. The Board-of-a-cross the street are going to move and she is quite sure that some horrible people will get in there and spoil the neighborhood. Needless to say the new neighbors turn out delightful people.

On another occasion you find her all worked up because she is so afraid Mrs. M. will make a mistake who said about Mrs. M. and make trouble and perhaps even make her husband lose his position. Needless to say Mrs. M. never thinks about the matter a second time.

If you go about it in a simple, natural, optimistic way, living is quite an easy business.

But if you really are bent upon doing so, you can make mighty hard work of living.

But please don't.

Truly it doesn't pay.

"The world is all dark or the world is all bright,

Just as we choose to make it;

Our burden is heavy, our burden is light,

Just as we happen to take it;

And people who grumble and people who groan

At the world and at every proposal,

Would grumble and groan if the world were their own

With the sun, moon and stars at disposal."

—Harriet L. Hunting Swift.

MAKE YOUR ACTIONS EFFECTIVE.

"Be stronger in action than advice," was the point of a talk a certain railroad president recently gave before the business men of a large city.

He meant that the wise men of a city not only talk, but they work for the welfare of the city.

That they must not be known alone as men ready to advise, but also as men who follow up their advice with the deeds that bring success.

Everything that grows to its full proportion is the result of some sort of activity. Careers that are worth anything at all are the result of being stronger in action than in advice. The same underlying principle of development is at work in everything capable of development.

No man living knows better than this railroad president the value of the advice he gave. His own life typified the value. He had raised himself from a small position on an insignificant railroad to the presidency of one of the greatest railroad systems in the country.

It is quite reasonable to assume, therefore, that he had spent little time in talking about how to do things or what ought to be done. Rather he had made his actions stronger than his words.

All of us have our theories of how things should be done, but theory without practice is of no value. At least not in the matter of accomplishment. It's the things we do intelligently and with definite purpose that count in the affairs of men. One may talk and theorize a lifetime and die without having been of any real benefit to the world. He may not be as much value as the poor fellow who spends his life doing things or breaking the ground for the best of railroads.

The world is full of people willing to give advice. There are relatively few persons willing to follow what they give or to organize their thought to the extent of making their productive of good to others.

A man said not long ago: "I know what it is to work, and work hard. I came into the world the son of a poor country parson. I wasn't the only child. There were a lot of others. Consequently, I early learned the necessity of getting out to work for myself. For more than thirty years, I was a farmer. My farm was in a section not particularly fertile, but I knew that I could make it return a fair per cent on the labor and thought expended. How I did work during those years! But I didn't send a single man to work. I wouldn't attempt to do myself. I made it a point to lead. With me it was never 'Go,' but it was 'Come on, boys!'"

The last ten years of my life on the farm I sold insurance. And I worked just as hard as that. Often I came home from a hard day's work to find something that had to be done to make the farm keep up to its standard. And I pitched in and put my energy to work where it would count most. I succeeded both as a farmer and as an insurance man. Not because I was brighter or more fortunate than others, but because I worked hard."

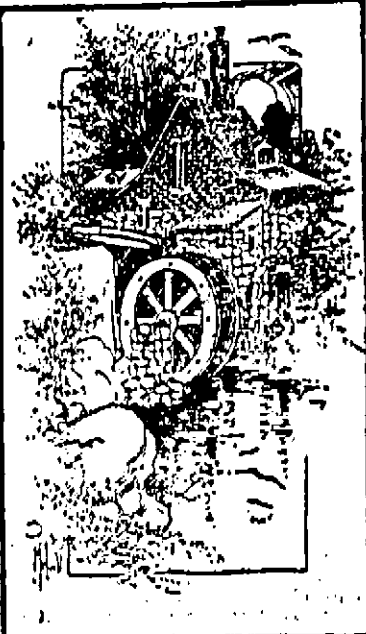

There is the story of all success: making one's actions effective by being stronger in action than in advice.

The Land of the Just Forget

By Byron Williams

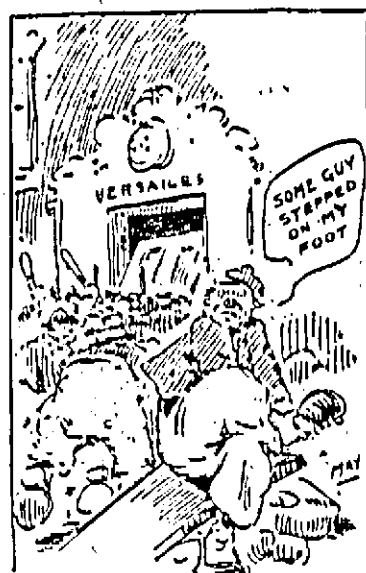

Where the mill wheel sings
And the diamond clings
In drops on the pearly blade,
Where the rainbow gleams
In the silver stream
Near the elm tree's mottled shade,
I am moved to-day
In a fairy bay
In the Land of Just Forget!

And the haunting cries
Of the thorny stairs
That lead to the heights are gone,
Take a child's hand
In the promised land
At the break of a golden dawn!
I am safe from woe
And its underling
In the Land of Just Forget!

I am starting now
With a Dryad crew
Through the forest cool and deep,
Where the grapevine clings
At the heart of things
And the world is half asleep—
To the realm of joy
As a before-hand
In the Land of Just Forget!

All the perfect bliss
Of a cruise like this
With the sad world left behind!
All drift to-day
In the boyish way
On a journey of the mind!
Ah, a magic key
Is the secret
To the Land of Just Forget!

WAYS OF SERVING RICE.

Rice is one of our most easily digested foods and because of it is often served in invalid cookery.

When cooking rice have a large proportion of water, drop in the rice a little at a time so that the water is not cooled enough to cease boiling. The agitation of the water will keep the rice in motion. It should be stirred as little as possible. When it is cooked each kernel will stand apart by itself plump and whole. After draining the rice set it for a few minutes into the oven to dry. It may be salted while cooking and served with bits of butter over the dish, taking the place of potatoes.

The addition of a little cold boiled rice to griddle cakes and muffins makes the dish more nutritious.

A delicious dessert called rice custard is prepared by adding a cupful of cold boiled rice to a custard before baking.

Rice is used as a stuffing for fowls. To prepare the stuffing, brown one onion finely chopped in a tablespoon of butter and mix it with four cups of boiled rice and a cupful of bread crumbs that have been moistened with boiling water. Season with sage, parsley or any herb desired; add a half pound of sausage meat or finely chopped salt pork and salt and pepper to taste.

Tomatoes and Rice.

Prepare tomatoes for stewing and add when boiling two tablespoonfuls of rice to a cup of tomato. Cover and cook slowly, then season with salt, pepper and a little butter and sugar.

Rice with cheese makes a very acceptable escalloped dish.

Rice croquettes may be served with any preferred sauce.

Boiled rice may be served in the place of potato in the Fatherland Loaf, lining the baking pan with a layer of rice, then put in the meat and cover with rice.

The Arithmetical Spirit.

"As a rule," said the cynic, "one may reckon the number of his true friends on the fingers of one hand."

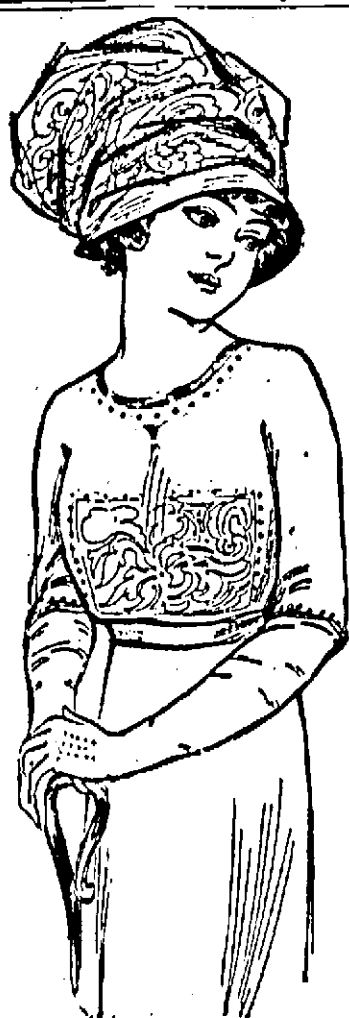

"Well," answered the good-natured person, "anybody who counts up his friendships the same as he does his money doesn't deserve any more."

Profit.

"Well, I made $250 today."

"Fine. How did you do it?"

"By declining to buy 1,000 shares of mining stock which a promoter insisted would be advanced from 25 cents to 40 cents a share at ten o'clock next Thursday."

A SIMPLE TONIC.

The tired, depressed feeling which some experience about the middle of the forenoon and afternoon may in many cases be materially relieved by the simple plan of sipping a glass of water or hot lemonade. Let the emphasis be upon that word "sipping."

"It is not a matter of indifference," says Sir Lauder Brunton (M. D., F. R. S., etc.), "whether the water be drunk down at a draught or sipped, for the act of sipping has a very extraordinary effect upon the circulation, as my friend, Professor Kronecker, has shown; during the act of swallowing, the power of the restraining nerves upon the heart seems to disappear; and if any one will count their pulses before they take a sip of water, and while they are taking it, they will find that while they are swallowing the pulse becomes nearly twice as quick as before."

A Welcome Change

Smoke curling up from the farmhouse chimney as the men are coming in from the fields, gives a pretty suggestion of a good supper and a comfortable home. But it also means a hot, tired woman, working hard over a blazing fire.

Your wife can escape this with a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove.

A New Perfection keeps a kitchen many degrees cooler than any other range, yet it does all a coal or wood range can do. It saves time, labor and fuel. No wood to cut; no coal to carry; no ashes; no soot. With the New Perfection oven it is the best cooking device you can find anywhere.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, telescopic blue enameled chimneys. Flame evenly spread throughout. The 2 and 3 burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc.

Dealers everywhere or write for descriptive circular to the nearest agency of the Standard Oil Company (Incorporated)

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—But Father forgot to reckon with the neighbors.

"Don't worry—the room occupied by Mr. ah—Montgomery was '15,' I believe you said."

Whatever occurred above, it was over with very shortly. Those listening at the foot of the stairs heard the first gentle rap on the door, an outburst of profanity, followed almost instantly by a sharp snap, as if a lock had given way, then brief scuffling mingled with the loud creaking of a bed. Scarcely a minute later the marshal appeared on the landing above, one hand firmly gripped in the neckband of an undershirt, thus securely holding the writhing, helpless figure of a man, who swore violently every time he could catch his breath.

"Any other room you could conveniently assign Mr. ah—Montgomery to, Tommy?" he asked pleasantly. "If he doesn't like it in the morning, he could be changed, you know."

"Give—give him '47,"

"All right. I'm the bell-boy temporarily, Montgomery; easy now, my man, easy, or I'll be compelled to use both hands. 'Red,' carry the gentleman's luggage to '47—he has kindly consented to give up his old room to a lady—come along, Montgomery."

It was possibly five minutes later when he came down, still smoking, his face not even flushed.

"Montgomery is feeling so badly we were obliged to lock him in," he reported to the clerk. "Seems to be of a somewhat nervous disposition. Well, good-night, Doctor," he lifted his hat. "And to you, Miss, pleasant dream."

Hope watched him as he stepped outside, pausing a moment in the shadows to glance keenly up and down the long street before venturing down the steps. This quiet man had onerous, hundreds of them, desperate and reckless; ceaseless vigilance alone protected him. Yet her eyes only, and not her thoughts, were riveted on the disappearing marshal. She turned to Fairbairn, who had risen to his feet.

"I wish I might see, him, also," she said, as though continuing an interrupted conversation. "See him? Who?"

"Mr. Keith. I—I knew him once, and—and, Doctor, won't you tell him I should like to have him come and see me just—just as soon as he can."

CHAPTER XXII.

An Interrupted Interview.

Miss Christie MacLaird, attired in a soft lounging robe, her luxuriant hair wound simply about her head, furnishing a decidedly attractive picture, gazed with manifest dissatisfaction on the bare walls of her room, and then out through the open window into the comparative quiet street below. The bartender at the "Palace," directly opposite, business being slack, was leaning negligently in the doorway. His roving eyes caught the fair face framed in the window, and he waved his hand encouragingly. Miss Christie's brown eyes stared across at him in silent disgust, and then wandered again about the room, her foot tapping nervously on the rag carpet.

"It's my very last trip to this town," she said decisively, her red lips pressed tightly together.

Miss MacLaird had indeed ample reason to feel aggrieved over her reception. She had written to have the best apartment in the house reserved for her, and then, merely because she had later been invited out to Fort Hays, and was consequently a day behind in arrival, had discovered that another woman—a base impostor, actually masquerading under her name—had been duly installed in the coveted apartment. Driving in from the fort that morning, accompanied by two of the more susceptible junior officers, conscious that she had performed most arduous work the evening before in the spacious mess-hall, and feeling confident of comfortable quarters awaiting her, it had been something of a shock to be informed by the perturbed clerk that "15" was already occupied by another. "A lady, what this man did not seem exactly of that kind.

"I came merely because I was sent for, Miss MacLaird," he replied, his gray eyes once again upon her face. "Doctor Fairbairn gave me your message; I am Jack Keith."

She looked the complete astonishment she felt, sitting up in the chair, her eyes filled with questioning doubt. "Doctor Fairbairn! My message! Surely you are mistaken? I know no one of that name, and have sent no message."

"You did not express a desire to see me?"

She laughed, exhibiting a row of white teeth. "Certainly not; not until this moment was I even aware of the existence of Mr. Jack Keith."

His own eyes smiled in response to challenge of hers. "I can assure you the surprise was mine also," he hastened to inform her, now more at ease, as he grasped the situation. "I could not understand how I had become known to you, yet I pledge you my word the message was actually brought. Of course you may suspicion otherwise, for I have seen you on the stage, and being a normal man, have wished that I could devise some excuse for meeting you."

"Indeed!" her eye-brows slightly uplifted.

Keith Backed Into the Corner—His Hand in His Pocket.

"Yes, I make that confession frankly, yet this call comes from no such desire. I had no question when I came, but what I had been sent for—you will believe this?"

"I suppose I must, yet it seems very peculiar," she replied, feeling convinced that he was a gentleman, and troubled as to what she had best do. "Yet now that you have discovered your mistake—"

"I hope to take advantage of the opportunity," he broke in firmly, leaning slightly forward. "May I ask you a question?"

"I could hardly prevent it, and really I do not know that I have anything to conceal."

"Then I will risk the effort—do you know a man named Hawley?—Barthel Hawley?"

His eyes did not falter, although a red spot shot into her cheeks, and her lips crossed together.

"No; that is I have never met him," she acknowledged, just a little confused. "But I have received two letters signed by that name, and rather expected the gentleman would call upon me here in Sheridan during my engagement. Is that your mission? Were you sent by him? or are you Mr. Hawley?"

"I disclaim all relation, Miss MacLaird, even friendship. You, of course, know who this individual is."

"No," the short monosyllable was not encouraging. "His message was of a business character."

"No I presumed, yet one likes to know something even of the person he does business with. I have been acquainted with Hawley for several years, and have never been aware of any honorable business he has ever engaged in. He is a professional gambler, known on the frontier as 'Black Bart'; last night he was running a faro game across there in the 'Palace.' I cannot help wondering what kind of business such a fellow could possibly have with you, Miss MacLaird."

The woman's eyes flashed, hardening in their brown depths. "What right have you to ask?" she began indignantly. "I am capable of deciding my own affairs. As I have told you I have never met Mr. Hawley, but I am not to be influenced against him merely by the denunciation of an avowed enemy. He has written me of something he has discovered which is of deep personal interest to me, and has promised to tell me the details, as well as place within my hands certain necessary papers."

"I appreciate your feelings," he said gently, as she paused, "but would you mind telling me the nature of those papers?" (To Be Continued.)

Successful Dry Farming. Grit and hard work are the secrets of successful dry farming. Cultivate the intensive plan; use just so much acreage as you feel sure you will be able to cultivate carefully and constantly; plow deep and frequently, bringing from below and mixing well with the surface sandy loam the heavier subsoils which underlie all this region.
